

BioWound Solutions Announces Exclusive Manufacturing Agreement with Keraplast Limited for Keratin-Based Wound Care Products

Las Vegas, NV — January 2, 2025 — BioWound Solutions, a Las Vegas, Nevada based leader in innovative wound management solutions, announced it has entered into an exclusive supply agreement with Keraplast Limited (Keraplast), a global biotechnology company based in Christchurch, New Zealand, that pioneered the use of keratin-based biomaterials for medical applications.

BioWound Solutions, the sole and exclusive owner of the keratin-containing advanced wound care products Keramatrix®, Keragel®, and Kerox®, has partnered with Keraplast as the manufacturing supplier for these innovative products. Through the manufacturing collaboration, BioWound Solutions will provide clinicians and healthcare providers with access to cutting-edge keratin-based therapies designed to accelerate healing and improve patient outcomes.

“This partnership marks an important milestone for BioWound Solutions,” said Nick Andolino, CEO, BioWound Solutions. “Keraplast’s unique and proprietary keratin technology is transforming wound healing, and we are proud to be the exclusive wound care company bringing these FDA cleared 510(k) solutions to the market. Through our keratin-based therapies, in partnership with Keraplast, we aim to redefine standards of care for patients suffering from chronic wounds.”

Keraplast’s proprietary keratin technology, Replicine™ is backed by decades of scientific research and clinical evidence, demonstrating its ability to promote cellular regeneration, reduce scarring, and support natural wound closure. This agreement ensures BioWound Solutions’ growing network of clients will have streamlined and exclusive access to these important therapies.

“We are excited to collaborate with BioWound Solutions, whose expertise and market presence in the United States, make them the ideal partner for expanding access to keratin-based products,” said Howard Moore, CEO, Keraplast. “This agreement strengthens our shared commitment to improving patient care and delivering meaningful innovation in wound healing.”

The agreement aligns with BioWound Solutions’ mission of vertical integration to deliver high-quality wound management products to healthcare providers and their patients.
